

FIL 1031 – History of Film I

Course Description: Examination of the history of film concentrating on the initial theories, early development, and technological advances through its development as a major art form and the introduction of sound in the late 20s.